The climatic, economic and social requirements of our farming world are accelerating at a rate of knots.

Carbon farming, regenerative ag, precision ag, data analysis, benchmarking, farming systems – it's all constantly changing.

Those who are prepared and leap ahead will lead the next generation of farming in the Northern Territory and beyond.

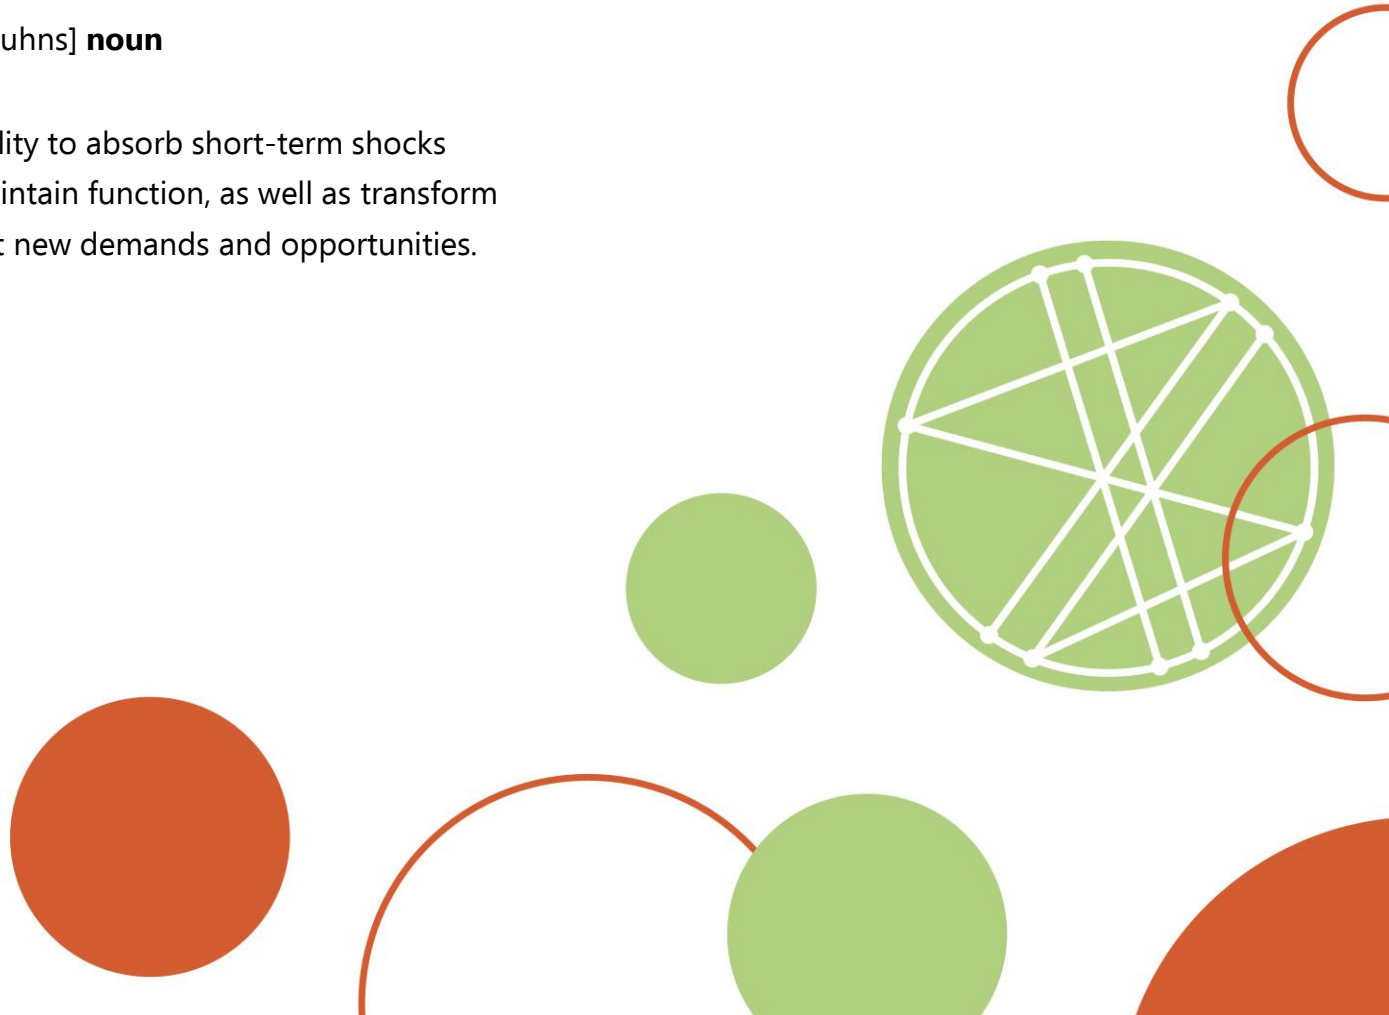

Whether you are a farmer, farm manager or employee, the Farm Business Resilience Program will help you shape a farm business plan that ensures you are preparing for any future climate variations and the challenges they may present. In the process, the program will arm you with the knowledge and confidence to be resilient in not only tackling change, but in getting ahead of it and turning risks into opportunities.

Resilience

[ri-zil-yuhns] noun

The ability to absorb short-term shocks and maintain function, as well as transform to meet new demands and opportunities.

A game changing program for all

The Team

Value Creators' Founders Ann Maree O'Callaghan and Maree Gooch together with their hand-picked team of leading industry experts will personally deliver the Farm Business Resilience Program. This tailored team brings years of experience to the table to ensure you build the best possible strategic business management plan, to create your successful future in agribusiness.

Future Drought Fund

The Farm Business Resilience Program is one of eight foundational programs under the Australian Government's Future Drought Fund. It is a massive commitment to help Australian farmers and communities become more prepared for and resilient to the impacts of drought. In the Northern Territory, the program is supported by the Northern Hub and Northern Territory Government, through funding from the Australian Government's Future Drought Fund.

Delivery Target

The program targets a range of geographic areas and diverse industry sectors including those wanting to explore new opportunities. So no matter where you are located or what agri-sector you are in the program will help you prepare your business for a successful future. Our aim is to help you prepare a modern and innovative individual farm business plan to accelerate your agribusiness skills and resilience.

Programs are planned for Alice Springs, Tennant Creek and Katherine from February 2023.

How will your four days play out?

- Day 1 Strategic planning for your business
- Day 2 Navigating innovation and preparing for drought with a focus on diversification and farm water use efficiency
- Day 3 Benchmarking, financial management and data driven decision making
- Day 4 Building personal and social resilience

What value is created?

A comprehensive long-term farm business plan, that sets you up for resilience through any climatic, economic or social changes in the future.

The program will follow a series of four days of interactive masterclass style learning delivered in 2 x 2 day blocks. This is reinforced by additional virtual self-paced learning sessions and 2 x one-on-one virtual business coaching sessions.

How much?

The program is fully-subsidised* for up to 30 agribusinesses (maximum 2 people per business or property).

**The program is valued at $10,000 per person.*

How do I apply?
